

My project will be designing a professional website for my partner Andre Henry-Cotnam. He is a recent college graduate and is developing a career at Home Depot and is currently working at the Pro Desk which specifically caters to contractors and architects who order their materials from Home Depot. Andre was also a published contributor in his university's newspaper and also contributed to the LGBTQ+ community activism at his university. A website for his work and current endeavors would be an excellent part of his professional portfolio and would enable him to meet other professionals in the community.
